

FROM JUNE 2016 SCHOLAR SPOTLIGHT

ATLANTA CHAPTER SCHOLAR ALUM PATENT ATTORNEY

Mary Chlebowski was an ARCS Scholar at Emory University during the 2005-2006 academic years. Dr. Chlebowski is currently a patent attorney at Finnegan, Henderson, Farabow, Garrett, & Dunner, LLP, helping inventors protect their ideas in a range of technologies from solar cells to new pharmaceuticals. She drafts patent applications based on research by inventors and then represents them before the U.S. Patent Office in order to secure a patent. Mary's ARCS Foundation-supported research gives her the unique ability to understand and communicate with inventors about all aspects of their inventions including synthesis and testing of new drug products and carriers.

Dr. Chlebowski received her Ph.D. in chemistry from Emory University and subsequently, a J.D. from Georgetown University.

More information on Dr. Chlebowski can be found on her Finnegan webpage.

Mary Chlebowski, Ph.D.
ARCS Scholar
Emory University
2005-2006